Bomb-Making Tips Jolt Tenn. Doodlers

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 22 (AP)—Doodlers at Memphis city hall got an unexpected lesson in how to make bombs recently, because of a slipup at the city print shop.

City Public Works Director Charles Blackburn flipped a page of his scratch pad, issued by the city, and found printed instructions on bomb manufacturing. Other reverse sides told how to blow up railroads and automobiles. The print shop, which made the pads from printed materials used in a sabotage course for city policemen, has been advised to be more careful in selecting surplus paper for the pads.
